Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated PLANTATION BITTERS, which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. stamp unmutilated over the cork with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. ☞ See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. ☞Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters, from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

Have you a hurt child or a lame horse? Use the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For cuts, sprains, burns swellings and caked breasts, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is a certain cure.

For rheumatism, neuralgia, stiff joints, stings and bites, there is nothing like the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For sparvined horses, the poll evil, ringbone and sweeny, the Mexican Mustang Liniment never fails.

For wind-galls, scratches, big-head and splint, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is worth its weight in gold.

Cute, bruises, sprains and swellings, are so common and certain to occur in every family, that a bottle of this Liniment is the best investment that can be made.

It is more certain than the doctor—it saves time in sending for the doctor—it is cheaper than the doctor, and should never be dispensed with.

"In lifting the kettle from the fire, it tipped over and scalded my hands terribly. * * * The Mustang Liniment extracted the pain, caused the sore to heal rapidly, and left very little scar.

CHAS. FOSTER, 420 Broad street, Philada.

Mr. S. Litch, of Hyde Park, Vt., writes: "My horse was considered worthless, (spavin,) but since the use of the Mustang Liniment, I have sold him for $150. Your Liniment is doing wonders up here."

All genuine is wrapped in steel plate engravings, signed, G. W. Westbrook, Chemist, and also has the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co., over the top.

Look closely, and be not deceived by counterfeits.

Sold by all Druggists at 25, 50 cts, and $1,00.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair frisk, soft and glossy.
It prevents the hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads.

This is just what Lyon's Kathairon will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the carload, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

Who would not be beautiful? Who would not add to their beauty? What gives that marble purity and distingue appearance we observe upon the stage and in the city belle? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its continued use removes tan, freckles, pimples, and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. Unlike many cosmetics, it contains no material injurious to the skin. Any Druggist will order it for you, if not on hand, at 50 cents per bottle.

Heimstreet's inimitable Hair Coloring is not a dye. All instantaneous dyes are composed of lunar caustic, and more or less destroy the vitality and beauty of the hair. This is the original Hair Coloring, and has been growing in favor over twenty years. It restores gray hair to its original color by gradual absorption, in a most remarkable manner. It is also a beautiful hair dressing. Sold in two sizes—50 cents and $1—by all dealers.

WHEN I WAS YOUNG,

OR, WHAT THE OLD WOMAN SAID TO HER DAUGHTER.

One morning as I chanced to pass
close by the garden gate,
An aged matron in the shade—
sat talking to her Kate.
The frost of age was on her brow,
and garrulous her tongue,
As she compared the doings now with those when she was young.

When I was young, young gals were meek,
and looked round kinder shy,
And when they were compelled to speak,
they did so modestly;
They staid at home and did the work,
made Indian bread and wheaten,
And only went to Sabbath School, and sometimes to night meeting.
Young children were obedient then,
and had no saucy airs—
They minded what their mothers said,
and learned to say their prayers;
But now-a-days they know enough before they know their letters,
And young ones that can scarcely talk,
will contradict their betters.
Young misses now go flitting round,
and looking out for beaux,
And scarcely one in ten is found who makes or mends her clothes.

When I was young, if a merchant failed,
he shut up house and hall,
And never ventured out till night,
if he ventured out at all.
His wife sold all her china plate,
his boys came home from college,
His gals they learned to cook and bake,
and wash, and such like knowledge.
But now-a-days, when a merchant fails,
they say he makes a penny;
His wife don't have a gown the less,
and his daughters just as many;
He rises his horse, he drives his gig,
he drinks his choicest wine,
His wife goes to the opera,
and he asks folks to dine.

When I was young, crime was crime—
it had no other name—
And when 'twas proved against a man,
he had to bear the blame;
They called the man who stole, a "thief,"
and wasted no fine feeling;
What's now called "petty larceny," in my day was called "stealing."
They did not make a reprobate
the theme of song and story,
As if the bloodier was the deed
the brighter was his glory.
And when a murder was performed,
could they the murderer find,
They'd hang him as they would a crow—
a terror to his kind.
But now-a-days, it seems to me, whenever blood is spilt,
The murderer has our sympathy proportioned with his guilt;
And when the law has proved a man
to be a second Cain,
A dozen jurors will be found
To bring him in insane.

THE PROMISE THAT WAS KEPT.

One evening four German students at a university were enjoying themselves in an upper room of a little hotel. They had four instruments, and were employing themselves in making music after the hard labors of the day. There was a pause in their music, but no sooner had they ceased playing than they heard an old man playing a violin beneath their window in the street. They went to the window and looked out, watching him until he had ceased playing. One of them threw out a little piece of money, and said to him, laughing: "Here, poor Peter, this is all we have for you now; come again some other time."

"Yes," said another, "come again in a year from now."

"Then we will give you a little house for a present," said the third.

"Yes, in the middle of a garden," said the fourth.

The old man was struck with wonder at such a promise. His long white hair shone brightly in the light of the lanterns which hung over a neighboring restaurant. He looked up to the window and said, after a moment's reflection: "Young people, are you in earnest in what you say to me? I hope you are not making light of an old man."

"Indeed, we are in earnest," replied Ernest, with excited voice; and his three companions called upon God to witness their seriousness.

"Farewell, then," replied the old man; "I take my leave of you. One year from to-day at this same hour, expect me to come and play a tune beneath this window. Farewell; may the Almighty One, whose name you have called upon, bless you in your kindness."

The old man went off after invoking this blessing upon them. The students closed the window, took their instruments again in their hands, and after playing three or four lively tunes, seemed to forget all that had occurred. Ernest said to them, however, after the space of half an hour: "You seem to be very quiet. It can not be, for I have made a promise that I would give something which I had not got."

"What promise?" answered one of the light-hearted companions.

"The promise of a house and a garden."

A loud laugh was the response that he met with, and the students separated. They met again on the following evening, and during their interview Ernest called to mind the promise of the night before. They made light of him, and told him that he was foolish to pay any attention to it. Then said he: "I don't see where your consciences are, if you can make a promise and break your word."

"How can we fulfill a promise of that kind?" said Christopher. "Our parents are all poor, and have more than they can do to send us to the university. How then can they help us to buy a house and a garden for a foolish old man? Good night, comrades, I wish you as pleasaut a sleep as I shall have."

But this kind of argument did not affect Ernest much, for he could not help thinking that he was compelled to keep his bargain. He was the poorest one of the group, for his mother was a plain widow, and she made her living by washing. The promise that he had made deeply affected him, and he left the university for a week, so that he might go home and tell his mother the pledge he had made the old musician. After he had told her, she replied: "Keep it, my son; keep it, if it cost your life."

"That is what I will try to do, mother, and I hope I shall have your prayers."

Ernest returned to the university and told his friends that they must seriously think of buying the old man a house and garden. He went into a neighboring village one day, and found that he could get a neat little house and garden for two thousand guldens. That was a large sum for those poor students to think of paying, but through the influence of Ernest the other three became convinced that it was their duty to keep their promise. The four resolved that, in one year from the time the pledge was made, the old man should have his house and garden if it was in their power to get them for him.

They must leave the university—a sad proceeding for them. They came to the conclusion to go through the country, and give little concerts; for really this appeared to be the only way possible to gain any money. Even by pursuing this course there appeared to be a poor prospect to get a large sum. Still they closed their books, and put their instruments into little bags, and set out on foot to give concerts, in the villages through which they might pass. Ernest before leaving, exacted a promise of the man who owned the house and lot which he had looked at that he would not sell it under six months to anybody, and that if he would promise to take it at the end of that time he might have it, though the money need not be paid under a year. Week after week passed by and the students slowly proceeded on their way. Their expenses were not heavy, but their income was very small too. Nine months and a half passed by, and still they had but little above seven hundred guldens. It was a question with them how the remaining thirteen hundred could be raised. They were spending one day at a country town, and a nobleman living in a large castle a few miles distant was seeking musicians to attend the wedding of his daughter, who was to be married in three or four days. Fortunately enough for the students, the nobleman employed them for the occasion. The marriage ceremony took place, and by and by it was time for the music to begin. The students had trained themselves very carefully for that evening, and their selections were certainly of a very high order. During the course of the festivities it was noticed that the nobleman became very sad. His face wore a melancholy appearance, and those who stood nearest to him saw him weeping. What could have caused him to be melancholy at such a time as that? One of the pieces those musicians played was his mother's favorite melody. She had often sung it to him many years ago, and he had not heard it since, until the students played it. It was enough to make him sorrowful, and it drew those students to his heart in such a way that he could not express his feelings. They had recalled to his mind a piece of music which he had never been able to find in any music store, and which it was now worth a fortune to him to hear.

I must now make my story short. The nobleman kept the four students in his castle two weeks, became acquainted with them very fully and learned their object in leaving the university to give concerts. He supplied them with three thousand guldens, and told them that they might have the privilege of making drafts on him at any time.

On the evening of the day when the old man promised to appear, he stood below the window playing on his old violin. He was true to his word and expected the promise to be kept. The young men went down to invite him up and told him all they had done. They showed him the deed for his place and gave it to him. On the following day he formally took possession of it, and they supplied it with furniture and with groceries for housekeeping.

The young men felt that they were amply repaid for their faithfulness to their word by the gratitude and joy of the old man. But they were not only repaid in feelings; they were more than repaid even in money.

Fourteen years after that time that place was taken into their possession; for the old man had died and bequeathed it to them in his will. That part of the town rose suddenly in value. Many things contributed to its increased value which I will not enumerate. It is enough to say, that in seventeen years from the time the four students gave the deed of that house and garden to the old musician, the same property which had cost two thousand guldens was worth eighty thousand. The students were not only repaid in heart, but also in money. They had kept their word and even to the poor old man who had no power to compel them to be true to it, was a pleasant memory as long as they lived.—Methodist.

Masonic Secrets.

An anecdote is related of a Master Mason well known to most of our readers, noted, as he is, for many acts of charity. He is withal a man of good presence and a great favorite among the ladies—so much so as to cause a degree of jealousy on the part of his worthy spouse. One evening, not long since, a bundle came to his house for him labelled "private." Of course this was sufficient for female curiosity, and therefore she indulged in an inspection. Horror of horrors! Blankets, baby linen, &c., greeted her astonished vision, and dreams of two families floated through her brain.

The husband soon came in, and, after tea, when the wife had discovered in his eye the treachery of his conduct, as she supposed—he took the bundle and went out, but not alone, for the jealous wife was on his track. The faithless husband little imagined that she who supposed herself so fully wronged was hovering after him. He halted before a small tenement, which he entered. Here she paused to hold a council of war. What tactics to follow she was in doubt; but she at once determined to storm the citadel, boldly knocked, and brushing past the little child who answered the summons, she stood in an instant before her husband, the embodiment of injured innocence.

Her feelings were about to find expression, when the scene before her caused her to pause. A pale and careworn man shivering over the expiring embers of a scanty fire, and a poor woman on a sick bed, a babe not old enough for christening, and two little girls snugly stowed away on some straw in a corner met her ferocious gaze. She read the story at a glance, and returned home with her husband a better and wiser woman, satisfied that she had discovered the great secret of Masonry.—Locke.

LONG OR SHORT.—An anecdote worth laughing over is told of a man who had an infirmity as well as an appetite for fish. He was anxious to keep up his character for honesty, even while enjoying his favorite meal, and while making a bill with his merchant, as the story goes, and when his back was turned, the honest buyer slipped a codfish up under his coat-tail. But the garment was too short to cover up the theft and the merchant perceived it.

"Now," said the customer, anxious to improve all opportunities to call attention to his virtues. "Mr. Merchant, I have traded with you a great deal, and have paid you up promptly and honestly, haven't I?"

"Oh, yes," answered the merchant, "I make no complaint."

"Well," said the customer. I always insisted that honesty was the best policy, and the best rule to live and die by."

"That's so," replied the merchant.

And the customer turned to depart.

"Hold on friend," cried the merchant, "Speaking of honesty, I have a bit of advice to give you. Whenever you come to trade again, you had better wear a longer coat, or steal a shorter codfish."

AN UNFORTUNATE STRANGER.—'Can you tell me,' said a stranger to a gentleman in a ball room, "who that lady is near the second window—that very plain looking lady?"

"That is my sister, sir," replied the person addressed, with a very formidable look.

"No, no, I don't mean her," said the unfortunate interrogator, 'I mean that ugly woman leaning against the piano: there's about as much expression in her face as in a bowl of bonny clabber."

"That, sir, is my wife."

"No, no," gasped the miserable stranger the perspiration starting from every pore. "Good gracious! I wish I could make you understand me! I mean that blear-eyed object in the pink silk, the one so awful homely. I should be afraid she would splinter a looking-glass by looking into it. There she is looking at us now."

"That, sir," said the gentleman with fierce calmness, "is my oldest daughter."

The stranger darted from the room and cleared the premises as though he had been struck with a presentiment that a powder magazine was going to explode in that room in less that three seconds.

FORTUNE TELLING.—One of our exchanges is responsible for the following story relative to this popular and pernicious vice: Not many evenings since it is recorded that a sinner who has escaped hanging for, lo! these many years, was in company with several young ladies. The subject of fortune telling was introduced. Several of the "angels" pleaded guilty to the soft impeachment of having written to Madam This and Madam That to furnish them leaves in their future history. Instances were mentioned of some very remarkable developments in a certain case hereabouts. Old R—— was asked for his opinion. He replied; "So far as I am personally concerned, I know more about myself than I wish to. I don't think any good comes of those things. I had a friend who dressed himself in lady's clothes and called upon a celebrated prophetess. He did not believe she would discover the disguise, but he heard what made him exceedingly unhappy." Here the old reprobate ceased. A lady much interested asked, "What did she tell him?" "She told him he was to marry soon, and become the mother of ten children?"

Carlyle, in his advice to young men, says: "If you doubt whether to kiss a pretty girl, give her the benefit of the doubt."

Thoughts for the Farmer.

Too Little Farming.

We do not know that there is any use in saying it, or that it will affect the action and life of a single person, yet we will say it—that of late years there has been too little farming in our country. The profession has not advanced, either in extent or in estimation, at an equal rate with other kinds of business. And probably the main reason why it has not advanced more is, that for some reason it has not been estimated highly enough to appear attractive. Thousands of young men and women have left their rural homes and employments, through the attractions, of some sort or of various sorts, in the cities and towns; but very few have gone from the latter to engage in the employments of the field. Apprenticeships, clerkships, domestic service, factory work, mechanical trades, and even common labor, appear more desirable to many, than the quiet, healthy, moderate labors of the field or farm house.

There may be different modes of accounting for this. The probability is, that the most common reason for the course is, the expectation of making money faster and perhaps more easily. The labors of farming are less severe than they formerly were. The completion of the improvements that required the heaviest labor, and the introduction of mechanical implements for doing almost all kinds of work have had this result. And then farming has been highly lucrative business for years past, and is destined, we think, to continue so. Besides, it is capable of being made more profitable by being better done. Add to this the considerations of its independent character, of its healthfulness, of the beauty always in view in its scenes, of the leisure for intellectual improvement, of the advantages for rearing families healthy in mind and body.

We say nothing against cities or city life, for those who are in them. But a large proportion of those who leave farm life for cities, will be disappointed in their expectations, whether those expectations contemplate profit, ease, society, or happy and contented feelings. We do not attempt to maintain that country life is Paradise or all that poetry has described it to be. We are quite sure it is not generally what it might be made. But as it is in some parts of the country, and in some cases that need not be exceptional, we believe the young man or woman to be congratulated whose choice fixes on a rural home and on agricultural employments as the business of life. If a few hundreds or thousands yearly would do it, and improve the business with good judgment and taste, the rude rusticity that too often accompanies the profession would be eliminated from it, and the happiness, prosperity and virtue of both cities and country would be elevated.—Commercial.

Poultry.—Stray Grains.

Garlic fed once or twice a week is excellent for colds.

See that plenty of pure water is within easy reach of your chickens on frosty mornings. Also feed early.

Pulverized charcoal given occasionally is a preventive of putrid affections to which fowls are very subject.

Feed your poultry raw onions chopped fine mixed with other food, about twice a week. It is better than a dozen cures for chicken cholera.

Pulverized chalk administered with soft feed will cure diarrhœa. This disorder is caused by want of variety in the food, or by too much green food.

Close up all cracks in poultry houses near the roosting poles. Fowls very much dislike air which reaches them through cracks and crevices.

Fowls exposed to dampness are apt to be troubled with catarrh, which will run to croup if not attended to. Red pepper mixed with soft feed, fed several times a week, will relieve the cold.

The place where the young chickens retire to ought to have a dry floor and be kept scrupulously clean, and as the floor is the coldest part of a room, their roosting box ought not to be more than twelve inches high, and to be slanting, which will keep the warm air in the roost.

Setting hens can be cured by putting water in a vessel to the depth of one inch, putting the hen into and covering the top of the vessel for about twenty-four hours. The vessel should be deep enough to allow the fowl to stand up. Give it air.

Earth-worms are greatly relished by confined fowls. Take a spade once a day and turn over the ground for your hens. They will soon run after you when they see you with the spade, and will amply reward you for the extra trouble to accommodate them by an increased supply of eggs.

☞Put not off till next month what can be done this. A day gained now may prove to be of great value next month. Get everything ready for spring work, and whatever you do, do it with your might and with willing hands, and let it be well done. Let plans for the season's work be completed, and a correct account kept of all the operations on the farm from month to month, so that at the close of the year you may be able to derive some benefit by the experience of the coming "seed time and harvest."

DIARRHŒA IN CATTLE.—A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer, cures it in this way:—Take half a pail of bran and pour boiling water on it and cover with thick cloth until nearly cool, then strain and give the tea to the afflicted animal. Two or three doses is very sure to cure and can do no hurt.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

WHAT IT WILL COST.—On Wednesday last, Mr. Stevens introduced a joint resolution providing for the expense of carrying into full effect the act of the 2d of March for the more efficient government of the rebel States and all supplementary acts, the bills being specified. He moved to limit the amount to $50,000,000. Agreed to, and the resolution, as amended, passed.

HOW THEY STAND.—A Washington telegraphic despatch dated 16th inst., says:

"The President is losing his amiability on what he terms the persecutions of the Senate in rejecting nominees to office, and he yesterday declared to certain Democratic Congressmen who called on him that he should continue to appoint Democrats. He repeated his inflexible determination to nominate Democrats only to vacant positions."

It is also said by Simon's friends in Washington, that he will do all he can to prevent the confirmation of any Democrat. The fight goes bravely on.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.—The women of New Jersey have petitioned the Legislature of that State, asking that the words "white male" may be stricken from its constitution, so that the right of suffrage may be made universal, and extended not only to black men, but white and black women. The petitions were referred to a committee, and a report has been made in favor of granting the prayer of the petitioners. The argument of the committee is mainly based on a single proposition, and the report urges that the vice of intemperance can only be cured by allowing the women of the State to take part in the elections.

COLLECTOR OF 17TH DISTRICT.—Mr. David Caldwell, of this place, was on Friday last nominated by the President, for Revenue Collector to fill the vacancy occasioned by the Senate's rejection of Alex. McMullen, Esq., of Ebensburg. Mr McMullen is a Johnson Republican, and Mr. Caldwell is a Johnson Democrat. It is public opinion that Mr. Caldwell will also be rejected by the Senate. We think he is just the man to stand a chance for confirmation as his reputation for political honesty is just as good as that of the United States Senator lately elected by the Republican party of this State. Such as they, are the successful men in these days of progress. If our word is doubted we offer Forney, McClure, and thousands of other leading Republicans to back us.

BEGINNING TO OWN UP.—Some of the most prominent Republican journals in the State are beginning to complain of the conduct of the men they have placed in power. Both parties need reform and if the politicians continue much longer in their mad career the people will be forced, in self-defence, to change the programme. The following article is from McClure's paper, the Chambersburg Repository:

"The Bedford Inquirer is intensely disgusted with the legislature for its want of fidelity to the people, and despairingly asks—'How long shall these things be?' The Inquirer ought to know that these things will be as long as our present system of legislation is tolerated by the people. While political speculators can go under the very shadow of the Inquirer and make legislative conferences without rebuke, just so long will 'political tricksters' demand the 'patient suffering' of the people. Our Republican cotemporaries of Bedford and Somerset defended the first and most flagrant act of our legislature, and they complain now because it is their ox that is gored. While they were hunting the tiger they enjoyed the sport, but when the tiger undertook to hunt them, they don't appreciate the luxury. Do they not see that there is no safety in either present or future legislation without a radical fundamental Reform? If by organic amendment all these powers, so fearfully abused by the legislature, were clearly defined and given to the courts, and the Representatives brought into immediate relations with their constituents, would not 'patient suffering' end? At all events, would not any change be for the better?"

☞ A well-known New York editor who has returned from a long trip through the Southern States, reports the people profoundly agitated by the reconstruction law, and hesitating about doing anything just so long as any supplemental legislation is impending. One serious objection to the movement, he represents, is based on the fact that the debt incurred by the present State Government will be invalidated by acquiescence of the people in the reconstruction bill, which declares in its preamble that said State governments are not legal. The State of Georgia, as it now exists, has issued a large amount of bonds.

☞ Michigan is to hold a Constitutional Convention which will have power to prepare an amend State constitution. In New York a Constitutional Convention is also to be held; and the subject of holding a convention to revise the Constitution of Pennsylvania is being agitated at Harrisburg.

Negro Suffrage in the North.

(There is something in the following article which we take from the editorial columns of the Brownsville Clipper.)

"We earnestly wish that some of our statesmen or cotemporaries who are more familiar with the negro question than we are, would give some satisfactory reason,-if any exists, why the colored men of the North, should not be allowed the right of suffrage as well as those of the South, by the terms proposed for reconstructing the late rebellious States.

Are the colored freemen of the North, who are schooled and educated like the whites, less intelligent, less likely to appreciate and exercise the right to suffrage understandingly, than the late, uneducated slaves of the South, some of whom, in point of intellect, are about the same remove from dead matter as a Delaware oyster? We confess we cannot see or understand either the justice, equality, or political philosophy of such a policy. If the South in order to maintain, or recover her former position in the government, is driven to the necessity of allowing all her male citizens above 21, to vote, "without distinction, of race or color," because such a policy is in itself right and just, and the contrary would be wrong and unjust, we beg to know by what system of morals or ethics, that which is required by right and justice in the South, is not also required by right and justice in the North. Are the great and eternal principles of truth and justice to be circumscribed by state lines?

The logic of the question is after this fashion:

The whites of the South at the present time, are deprived—we don't say unjustly—of a voice in the government. It is proposed to allow them a voice in the government, if they will do justice to the negro, by allowing him to vote.

The North already have a voice in the government, and therefore it is not incumbent upon her to do justice to the negro in order to secure the exercise of that voice! We can't see it.

We say that if it is right, in itself considered, that negroes in the South should vote, it is right, for the same reason, that negroes in the North should vote, and that, to make any distinction, by allowing those in the one section to vote on account of any difference between the two sections in the basis of representation, and deny the same right to those in the other section, would be a mere matter of political policy, and not one of abstract, moral right, justice, or humanity."

Trade in General.

Trade is languid throughout the country. In all branches there is a general waiting for a coming day before moving. In the mean time general reports from all sections of the North represents the farmers but little in debt; and the merchants of the interior towns, villages, and cross roads, as holding light stocks. With this condition, there is also some complaint of difficulty in collecting any outstanding claims. A pressure from interior dealers, upon jobbers, for a longer credit than has prevailed of late years, has sprung up under this state of trade. Jobbers and Manufacturers are urging, by their "travelers," their own stocks upon customers—who, in the dullness of demand for consumption, have no disposition to purchase, unless with the grant of a longer date for payment. It is to be hoped this will not obtain as a rule. There can be but little doubt that the close money market which has prevailed for the past two months, and still exists, would, under the old fashioned credit system, have developed into a first class panic, like those of '37 and '57.

Under the short credits and cash systems that have ruled in trade generally during the past six years, there was but comparatively little of unsoundness for a panic to feed on. The close money market has, however, in the effort of all to liquidate such indebtedness as may have existed—and there was a much larger amount than was supposed—exhausted balances so nearly, that the cash balance to inaugurate the Spring trade is too light to fairly turn the driving wheel over its centre. Those who propose to make credit take the place of the cash to accomplish this, are but paving the way to an ultimate panic. There is no question that a large amount of money was made during the past six years; but it is hardly less certain that comparatively a small proportion of those gains were saved. It is certain that but little was permanently added to individual cash balances,—many spent full as much as they made, others embarked their gains in fresh enterprises. It is thus the matter stands at present. There is, in a population of between thirty and forty millions of people, such an annual consumption of all descriptions of articles and products, as must always—if merchants will have patience—produce a healthy, active market. Such a market is the one the country needs, and can result from no forced stimulation under a credit system. The wild rage of speculation engendered by the enhancement of gold, has past. Every one is interested in getting to the gold basis again, so soon as it can be properly done. Every movement tending to increase of credits, delays this. It will be more profitable in the final results if our business men curb impatience to do business, and wait until the complete exhaustion of stocks, in the hands of dealers, through consumption and the incoming of the present crops, revive trade on the base of actual demand for natural consumption, relying upon earned money for payment. It is better that our jobbers and manufacturers do no business this Spring, losing all their expenses and the interest upon their capital invested, and have a sound cash trade in the fall; than for the mere doing of business pave the road to great ultimate losses, through the renewal of long credits. The consumption of the country only requires a certain amount of goods and on falling markets, as do most undoubtedly prevail now, no sales beyond such as that consumption requires can be made. That consumption will take the goods of necessity, at the terms demanded by their holders. Trade once safely landed again on specie basis—on a cash or sixty day system, holds the whip-hand thereafter over such terrible monetary panics as have desolated heretofore the trade of the United States.—Pittsburgh Trade Circular.

Physicians who examined the body pronounce it a clear case of spontaneous combustion. It is supposed that the fire was communicated by attempting to light a cigar.

HARRISBURG.

A Legislative Visit to Washington—Incidents by the way—A Respectable Man Mistaken for a Legislator—Serious Consequences—Interesting Incidents in Washington—The Senate Denies the Courtesy of the Floor—Serenade to Senator Cameron.

[Correspondence of the Chambersburg Repository.]

HARRISBURG, March 11, 1867.

We have had another glorious week. Of all the festive legislatures this one is the festivest I have ever known. It has festived Pittsburg, New York, Philadelphia and other places by committees; has festived Harrisburg generally, and finally gave Washington its festivest festivity. The whole legislature resolved to go to Washington to see that their unsophisticated new Senator should not go into the wrong House, or by any other awkward accident fail to get his seat. As he knows nothing of the chicanery and trickery of Washington, it was deemed best that the whole legislature, the one hundred and one pasters and folders, the correspondents, and the chiefs of the lobby, should be combined in a committee of safety for the trip, and to be transformed into an advisory and admiration committee when the capital should be reached. Being of the old school of Harrisburg correspondents, I was of course invited, and from my intimate relations with and devotion to the legislature, I could not decline. My ticket of invitation kindly inquired whether I would a Rooster be and with the Roosters go, and if so to come along. Of course I went, and was treated with distinguished consideration particularly on the trip and had a jolly time generally. Although there are but 133 members of the legislature, 107 subordinate officers, and about ten correspondents, there were some 347 who were ticketed and passed along as belonging to the legislature, while some 30 of the members did not go at all. I did not understand this discrepancy in figures, nor did I seek an explanation, but when we got to Washington and got up the serenade to our Chief, I found that we had everything with us from the legislature down to a promiscuous crowd and a large committee on applause.

No incidents worthy of note happened on the journey, excepting a few little unpleasant misunderstandings such as always will occur in large and promiscuous crowds. Sitting in meditative quietude, with my cloak wrapped closely around me, and my hat drawn over my serene brow, I was aroused from my revery by a fellow-passenger mistaking me for Senator Cameron and presenting a petition for the post office in his village. I forgave him for the blunder, as he was intoxicated. Another more serious affair occurred as we neared Baltimore. A stout, ruddy faced, bearded man entered the car and took a seat among the legislative party, not knowing the society into which he had plunged himself. The conductor, when making his next round, inquired of the stranger whether he belonged to the legislature. You may have read of volcanic eruptions, but Vesuvius never was a circumstance to the eruption of the new passenger. His first answer was to knock the conductor helter skelter over several seats, and would have battered him into a jelly had not a number interfered. "Take me, a respectable hog-drover, for a member of the Pennsylvania legislature, indeed!" said the insulted dealer in swine as he still kept struggling to satisfy his vengeance on the poor conductor, already hors de combat. He was finally pacified by allowing him a place in the baggage car, where, he was assured, none of the legislative excursionists were to be found. He gathered up his baggage, felt for his pocket book and watch, to be sure that nothing was lost, and with virtuous disdain he made a bee line for the baggage car. The conductor was freely bathed with rum, internally and externally, and speedily recovered. The rest of the journey was pleasant and unmarked by any events of unusual moment.

When we got to Washington, it was decided that in order to be sure of the admission and swearing in of our new Senator, a resolution should be rushed through the Senate inviting the legislature and attendants to the floor of the Senate. The lobbyists of the party were called in, and instructed to have the resolution passed, a la Harrisburg. It was accordingly prepared and Cowan was arranged with "to put it through." It was promptly offered just in the expiring hours of the 39th Congress, and our excursionists stood around the Senate doors waiting for the spontaneous invitation of the Senate to mingle us with the great statesmen of the land. Our patience was tried, but our bottles were plenty, and we bore up under the delay, until at last our hopes were dashed to the earth by notice that the resolution to admit us had failed—receiving but the votes of Cowan and Buckalew. Sumner (I wish Brooks had killed the traducer of legislative virtue outright) sneeringly said that most of the body were pasters and folders, and that they were the most reputable portion of the party. Garrett Davis spoke three hours and fourteen minutes declaring the proposition in infraction of the constitution. Saulsbury and McDougall reminded the Senate that most of the Senators had just drawn their pay for the session and had it about their clothes. "Would it," they asked with apprehension delineated in every feature of their rum-blossomed faces, "be prudent to admit the Pennsylvania legislature promiscuously into the Senate? Where might our cash be when the show ended?" That feather broke the camel's back, and the proposition was lost by forty-seven majority out of fifty-two votes. We then unanimously resolved that we would not visit the floor of the Senate, and we directed our steps to our hotel, and made preparations for a serenade to our new Senator. We paid our band, impressed our crowd to act the spontaneous on the occasion, selected and notified our speakers who were to be unexpectedly called upon, and notified Senator Cameron of the exact hour we would surprise him with a serenade to be given in the name of the Pennsylvanians in Washington.

The only trouble was in limiting the speeches. There were only thirty-six who had written out speeches to be delivered extemporaneously on the occasion, and as not more than five could be accommodated, it took adroit diplomacy to squelch the others out. A committee was appointed, of which I was chairman, to settle the difficulty, and we finally got thirty one to agree not to be surprised into a speech on the condition that the officers they had been promised should not be imperiled by their silence. Thus matters were elegantly arranged, and the whole thing passed off smoothly as sledding on ice. Cameron's speech was a cross between Johnson's offices and Republican principles, and was considered a great success. Great relief was felt after the whole thing was over. As the new Senator was admitted without challenge and sworn in, the last obstacle to a complete settlement of outstanding balances was removed, and we all returned home as merry as a marriage bell. Some of us had head-aches on our return, but time and soda made all things right again. HORACE.

THE FLOOD.

CINCINNATI, March 14.—The Gazette's Nashville special says the reports of suffering at Chattanooga and other places along the Tennessee river are appalling. At Chattanooga on the 11th the water was from twelve to twenty feet deep in the city. Many houses were toppling over, and others floating away. The Mayor, with a posse of citizens and soldiers, was foraging among the loaded cars for food. The agents of the road protested, but the Mayor said the people were starving. Twenty-five dead bodies were seen floating down the river at Bridgeport, Ala., on the 12th. The loss of property is estimated at a million dollars. General Carlin, at Nashville, was making efforts to send rations through to Chattanooga.

CAIRO, ILL, March 14.—The officers of the steamer Rockport, just from the Arkansas river, report the country overflowed, and great loss of property and suffering of the inhabitants. Twenty-seven lives were lost at Helena by the flood, mostly freedmen.

ELECTRIC HAIR RENEWER,

Is pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the Hair. It is a positive cure for Baldness, eradicates Dandruff and Humors, stops the hair from falling out, and speedily restores Gray Locks to their original hue and luxuriance.

It operates on the secretions and fills the glands with new life and coloring matter. Thin, dead, faded or gray hair will always be brought back by a few applications, to its youthful abundance, vitality and color.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, fragrant, pleasant to the touch and easy to arrange. Dry, wiry and intractable locks become moist, pliant and disposed to remain in any desired position. As a Hair Dressing it has no equal.—The sales are enormous and it is a universal favorite with old and young of both sexes.

PHOTOGRAPH

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction; but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 19 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented German Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: on the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" form an arch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in Old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or encircled in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.

Brief Items.

—Sober printers are in demand at Harrisburg. Just so.

—Hollidaysburg is to have a new nail factory. Enterprising people.

—The Lutherans of this place are holding a protracted meeting. Rev. Mr. Kerr is officiating.

—The grading of the new railroad from Clearfield to Philipsburg, is to be commenced immediately.

—The firm of Simpson, Armitage & Co., Booksellers, has dissolved and J. C. Blair will continue the business at the room on Railroad street.

—Water sufficient for navigation will not be let into the canal until the first of April, on account of repairs being necessary at different points.

—The town of Clarion, Pa., has but one licensed hotel and one eating saloon where liquor of any kind is sold. Would that we could say as much of Huntingdon, on the Juniata.

—Mrs. Katy McKnight, of Lewistown, was seriously injured by the explosion of a coal oil lamp, which she had on her lap, and tilting, exploded in falling, and set her clothes on fire.

—The Mt. Union Times considers it an encouraging sign of progress that the price of real estate is rapidly going up in that place. The property-holders of that village are certainly "wide-awake."

—Glazier & Bro. intend opening a store on Washington street, near Smith some day this week. Theirs is a good locality and their stock of goods will be as good as the best in town. Advertisement next week.

—The fellow who had the cool impudence to enter our office one night last week is requested to try it again and lock the doors after him when he retires. As we don't miss anything he is advised to tell us what he wanted.

—We had another fall of snow on Sunday last. It is said by those who kept tally with the clerk of the weather that that was the fortieth fall of snow we had this season. If so, that is enough, if it is not all.

—A despatch reached us from Dudley, stating that there was a Republican majority for the township officers of Carbon. This is something very unusual for that Democratic stronghold. The returns from Tell are not yet in.

—G. Ashman Miller is still Postmaster at this place, but he is only waiting for orders to vamoose, when his successor has successfully gone through the palavering ordeal. Ash. feels very comfortable, and can play a "good joak" admirably.

—The colored people of this place will give an exhibition in their church this evening. The object is, we believe, to liquidate that same old debt. We understand the programme is a rich one, and those who go will have fun and plenty of it.

—From the 6th of March, (which is Ash Wednesday) to the 21st of April, Easter Sunday—is the season of lent, observed more especially by the Catholic and Episcopal churches. It is kept in remembrance of the forty days fast of the Saviour in the wilderness.

—There were eight persons immersed in the waters of the canal on Sunday afternoon last, in conformity with the rite of the Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Plannett, of Mill Creek, officiated. There was a large number of our people who witnessed the immersion, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather.

—It is wonderful to see with what rapidity we have a new postmaster for this place. We have had no less than four (three bogus) within as many days, during last week. We think the applicants should claim a fair share of the "spoils" for the time they lost and also for the dis-appointment.

—It has been proposed to hold an editorial convention at Altoona, some time this spring. As business of importance to publishers would be transacted at such a meeting we cannot see why the call should not be made. We think it advisable to form an Editors' Union, to promote their interests, and awaken a livelier interest in favor of the press throughout the State.

—The season is near at hand for planting trees—particularly the more delicate fruits, such as peaches, pears, grapes, &c., and we cannot too strongly impress upon the people of our borough and county the importance of devoting a portion of their time and means to the growth of fine fruit. It is too common for persons to procure cheap fruit, plant it imperfectly and then let it take care of itself, by which operation pretty much the whole investment is wasted.

—Governor Geary has approved a bill incorporating the Morrison's Cove railroad company, with Henry L. Patterson, A. L. Holliday, R. A. McMurtrie, and others, of Blair county, and Wm. H. Aaron and Joseph B. Noble, of Bedford, as incorporators. The railroad is to be commenced either at Hollidaysburg or Newry; thence thro' the gap, in Dunning's mountain, in which the iron works are; thence into Morrison's Cove, and running near the Bloomfield iron ore banks, to Pattonsville, in Bedford county. The capital is to be $200,000.

Fish.

The preservation of the fish in our rivers and streams is drawing public attention, and as it is in the spring, when the majority of fish ascend streams for the purpose of spawning, that their destruction is accomplished, we would suggest the formation of a county association to enforce the laws. It is illegal to fish with a seine or set or use any kind of a net in any of the creeks of this county, at any time, an act which, if carried out for a few years, would stock every creek, and again render fish more plentiful in the river. Col. Worrall, the fish Commissioner, in speaking of this subject, well says:

"Our law is, as far as I can see, sufficiently explicit in its provisions; but if you want fish, those provisions must be enforced, and their enforcement depends upon the people. Piratical fishing must be stopped. You can't "have your cake and eat it," as saying is.

If after the fish get up through our fishways, and deposit their spawn above dams, and when the poor little shad fry are making their way to the sea they shall be caught in fish baskets and sold by the bushel, how are we ever to get shad back into the river? Our law is sufficient to prevent this now, if the people living along the river will take the thing in hand and prevent this wholesale murder.

Every justice of peace has the pamphlet laws, and the law on the subject, approved 30th of March, A. D. 1866, can be referred to at any time.

If only piratical fishing be stopped we will eventually have our fish back, and that can be stopped if our people will be vigilant and do away with the murderous fish baskets—which they can do under our present law. Now I will give the people due and timely notice that much depends on themselves, if the plans we have adopted prove such as to admit the fish above Columbia."

The remarks relative to piratical fishing apply as well as to trout, pike and other fish in our smaller streams as to shad, salmon, rock, perch, &c., in the Susquehanna and Juniata.

The Lawyer in the School Room.

This remarkable little book, by M. McN. Walsh., A. M., L. I. B., (a New York lawyer), is full of useful and reliable information for everybody, but especially for teachers, school officers, parents, ministers, editors and members of the legal profession. The first chapter, "Of Schools and Governments," is a succient explanation of the different plans adopted by Governments, ancient and modern for the diffusion of knowledge among the people. This chapter, in some respects, is exceedingly suggestive, and not unworthy the attention of our most intelligent and experienced statesmen. It is not imaginative or speculative, but a plain, matter-of-fact statement, which, in spite of its plainness, has, to a mind capable of appreciating the subject, all the charm of romance. This chapter alone is worth many times the price of the book. For sale at Lewis' Book Store, price $1.00.

Horses Killed by Salts.

Last week Samuel Roland, of Granville township, lost two colts (a yearling and three-year old,) by death, under very singular circumstances. Two of his colts had been foundered some time ago, and a third seemed somewhat "under the weather." A dose of Glauber's salts was recommended. He accordingly bought what purported to be that article, and gave a dose to each of the three. Upon one it acted as a brisk cathartic in ten minutes; upon the other two not at all, and both died within four days, as he supposes, from the effects of the medicine. He purposes having some of the salt analyzed, to determine whether it is a pure article. The colts were worth $150.—Lewistown Democrat.

"POLLY WANTED A CRACKER."—Don't be surprised, reader—perhaps you wont—when you are informed that Mr. John A. Nash, of the firm of Nash & McDivitt, editors and proprietors of the Journal & American, is [or was] willing to accept "bread and butter," in the shape of the Post Office, from the hands of Andrew Johnson. Some folks could hardly think it possible that either of the editors would be willing to eat the crumbs that fall at the feet of President Johnson.

HUNTINGDON POSTMASTER.—After our last issue, Mr. "Ike" Hildebrand received a nomination from the President for P. M., at this place—but on the day following he was rejected by the Senate—cause why, he had never voted and might be a "Copperhead." The office is still running at large with the "bread and butter brigade" increasing in numbers in hot pursuit. There are still a few more citizens—very few—who are not applicants for the office.

Renovo Matters.

RENOVO, March 13th, 1867.

MR. EDITOR:—Permit me through the columns of your highly esteemed sheet, to inform the public of the doings of our youthful town of Renovo. The ice on the West Branch has broken up and the river is floating a great many logs down to market. A great many rafts are in readiness awaiting high water to start down. We had a very serious accident a few weeks ago, that of the explosion of engine 1002 which killed Wm. Snyder, of your town, and Patrick O'Brien, and seriously wounded John Costello. The causes of the explosion are unknown. The engine was a complete wreck. The fire box was standing on the driving wheels, and the smoke box on the truck. The rails under her were broken in several pieces; a house about 150 feet from the engine occupied by Wm. Ginter, was completely wrecked, all the glass being broken. Another house occupied by Charles Crites, had a great many windows broken.

In the Journal & American I noticed a mistake saying that Patrick O'Brien and John Costello were struck by different pieces of iron. I beg leave to inform the readers of your paper that there were but two pieces of iron struck the house, one went clear through the roof, passing through the other side, one piece passing through the side, and is supposed to have hit both men.

The middle Division has changed Superintendents. Mr. J. Pitcairn, of P. R. R., took charge the 1st inst. Mr. G. C. Wilkins is to take charge of the B. E. V., & T. & C. R. R. The Renovo Shops have changed bosses also. Mr. E. L. Tyler has been relieved by Wm. L. Foster, of Erie Shops, formerly Engineer of Huntingdon Shifter.

The moral character of Renovo is getting to look better than it was a year ago. The Odd Fellows have started a Lodge here and have quite a number of members. The Good Templars organized a Lodge on the 23d of January, and have increased 100 per cent in membership since. George W. Given was elected W. C. T., and Upton Crouse, W. S.

The Machinists and Blacksmiths have organized a Machinists & Blacksmiths Union, with a large list of members. There is some talk of a Masonic Lodge being started this summer.

We have religious services every Sunday, of one of the following denominations, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian and Catholic. As I have given you all the news, I will close. More anon. Yours, &c.,

HOOK MOTION.

Testimonial of Respect.

At a regular session of the McClain Lodge, No. 83, I. O. of G. T., the following preamble and resolutions were adopted in reference to the death of Mrs. Annie L. Studebaker, wife of Rev. E. Studebaker.

WHEREAS, Providence in his inscrutable wisdom has removed from our friendly circle a devoted and cherished member,

Resolved, That we acquiesce in this dispensation of Providence, and recognize the fact of our own mortality, and the glorious fruits of living in quiet conformity to the Supreme will.

Resolved, That we commend to all the example of our beloved sister, in whom the gifts and grace of the Christian character were so prominently marked, and so beautifully blended. In whom dignity of thought and action, tempered with tenderness and simplicity; and culture and refinement sustained by the purest social and moral virtues, formed a union as charming to contemplate as it is honorable to humanity.

Resolved, That with tender consideration we sympathize with the friends of the deceased, and especially with our brother, bereft of the chief ornament of his home and the loving companion of his life.

Resolved, That the Lodge take appropriate action in memory of the deceased, order the above to be printed and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

Respectfully,
NANNIE J. MUSSER,
DR. M. MILLER,
WM. S. SMITH.
Committee.

McAlevy's Fort, March 13, 1867.

Tribute of Respect.

McClain Lodge, I. O. of G. T., on 7th inst., in regular session assembled, unanimously adopted the following preamble and resolutions;

WHEREAS, In the providence of an Almighty God, death has again visited us, and removed from our midst, a worthy brother, Wm. Wallace Hite, a youth of much promise, and no doubt bright hopes; and

WHEREAS, In the death of our departed brother, the parents have lost a dutiful son, the family an affectionate brother, and the McClain Lodge, a faithful and promising member; therefore,

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to this dispensation of the Almighty, we deeply sympathize with the parents and other relatives of the deceased in their sad bereavement, and express our heartfelt sorrow in the loss they have sustained.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the parents of the deceased, and to the Huntingdon Globe for publication.

The Income Tax.

INTERNAL REVENUE CIRCULAR.

The following has just been issued from the office of the Internal Revenue Bureau:

WASHINGTON, March 5, 1867.—An act approved March 2, 1867, amending the existing law relating to the internal revenue, requires the assessment of the annual taxes, heretofore made in the month of May, to be made on the corresponding day in the month of March.

The principal changes in the law respecting the income tax are those increasing the exemption from six hundred dollars to one thousand dollars, and the repeal of the tax of 10 per cent. on sums above five thousand dollars, so that the law now imposes a uniform tax of 5 per cent. on incomes in excess of one thousand dollars. Profits on sales of real estate, purchased since December 31, 1863, are made taxable as income.

Attention is also called to that portion of the act of July 13, 1866, which repealed the tax on musical instruments, yachts, and certain carriages heretofore taxed in schedule A. Instructions and rulings concerning the assessment of the annual taxes will be issued in a few days.

Where the present number of assistant assessors is insufficient for the proper assessment of the annual taxes, an additional number will be appointed upon the request of assessors. Care should be taken to specify the divisions for which they are needed.

It will be some days before a supply of income stamps can be printed, and in the mean while assessors who have any of the forms No. 24, prepared for use last year, can adapt them for present service. From 24½ can be used with the alteration of dates only. A limited number of last year's blanks can be furnished from this office to those assessors who desire to use them while waiting for the preparation of the new blanks. E. A. ROLLINS, Commissioner.

Congressional Tippling.

The sale of intoxicating drinks in the Capitol at Washington has been long a cause of mortification to thousands of citizens throughout the country. And the shame is not less, when they hear of the drinking—sometimes hard drinking—that is done in committee rooms. A liberal grog shop in the Capitol, for the express use of members of Congress, is felt to be a national disgrace. Members whose wits require such frequent jogging, or whose physical machinery needs to be so often wound up, had better be removed to some hospital for feeble minds or infirm bodies, for they cannot be proper persons to deliberate, judge and decide on great and important national interests. Besides, if the effect of stimulus on the brain does not injure legislation it is the only business that we hear of, which is done as well by persons half intoxicated as by those under the full government of their reason. In this view of the case, the substitution of the "individual" bottle in the pocket, for the common one at the "hole-in-the-wall," would be no improvement—perhaps some would drink more, buying it cheaper by the pint.

Some of our business corporations, such as Railroad and Express companies, proscribe drinking altogether in their business, allowing none of their employees to drink any intoxicating liquor. In business where life and property are at stake, this regulation commends itself in every unprejudiced mind. No traveller by cars will object to a sober engineer. But the business of Congress is more important, as involving vast interests of every kind, and surely a clear head is necessary to transact it properly. No District or State has a right to send a sot to Congress, to make laws for the United States. And no sober and intelligent citizen wishes laws to be made under the impulse of rum, whiskey or brandy, or under their influence in any way.—Congressmen are not understood to be so much abler and wiser than other men, that they can afford to lose part of their wits or to have them muddled with liquor, and yet have enough left to do the law making for the Union in the most approved manner. A Treasury clerk has just been apprehended for stealing $38,000, and says, in his confession, that he did not take the money deliberately but under the influence of intoxicating drink. How many of our financial and political defalcations may be the consequences of the same cause? If we need sober, reliable men anywhere, it is in Congress and the public offices of the Capitol.—Pittsburg Commercial.

A Word to Parents.

If you would have your children become useful members of society, teach them the theory and practice of temperance, now in the days of youth, while the mental susceptibilities are active and ready for the formation of habits of sobriety and virtue. Place before their minds, in such manner that they may not soon forget, the advantages of abstinence from intoxicating stimulants, and the disadvantages and dangers that almost invariably attend the use of alcoholic beverages.—Dissuade them from keeping company with young men of dissolute character, for "evil communications" not only "corrupt good manners," but act as leaven which "leaven the whole lump." If your boys adhere to a fixed determination never to allow a single drop of the poisonous liquid to pass between their lips, not even at the solicitation of friends, who may perhaps thoughtlessly proffer a glass of wine or ale, you will find that in a few years the destroyer, with his wily arts of temptation, will seldom essay to break down the barriers which divide the good from the evil. But, on the other hand, if you permit your children to go forth in the world unarmed, as it were, and careless in the choice of associates, as well as reckless and loose in their moral deportment, you will one day learn to your sorrow that as you have not sown the seeds of temperance in the minds entrusted to your care, you have sown the seeds of tares, whose aftergrowth no mortal husbandman may ever be able to eradicate. Therefore, if you would inculcate correct principles for the guidance of youthful intellects, be careful to furnish, for the improvement of leisure hours, such books and papers as teach and set forth, with vividness, the doctrines of virtue and temperance.—In illustration of this, the writer remembers when, many years ago, thro' the kindness of a venerable friend, he became the reader of a paper for juveniles whose editor denounced the selling of intoxicating liquors, and exposed in their true light the horrors of drunkenness and vice. The good counsels therein offered, and the warnings to shun the ways of evil and sin, produced a most salutary effect, that will doubtless endure to the end of life; and often, in thoughtful moments, has the memory of that editor and of that friend been blessed for what they were certainly the means, through God's assistance, of accomplishing, at least, as far as one mind was concerned.—Echo.

WHAT ONE GLASS OF WINE DID.—The influence which an apparently insignificant circumstance often exerts on the affairs in life was well illustrated in the history of Louis Phillippe, who was the heir apparent to his father's throne, and regarded as one of the most promising young men in France. Not given to dissipation, of a lofty and noble character, and an officer of distinction in the army, the hopes of his family, his friends, and his country, were centered on him. One morning, being about to take his departure from Paris to join his regiment, he invited a few companions to breakfast with him, and in the conviviality of the hour drank one glass of wine too much. Bidding adieu to his companions he stepped into his carriage. Had it not been for the "glass too much" he would have remained seated; as it was he sprang out. But for the "glass too much" he would have alighted on his feet; as it was, his head struck the pavement. Senseless and bleeding, he was carried into a beer shop and soon expired.

That extra glass of wine overthrew the Orleans dynasty, caused the confiscation of their property worth $100,000,000, and drove the family into poverty and exile.

NEW BOUNTY LAW PASSED!

Attention, Discharged Soldiers!

The Act of Congress approved July 28, 1866, gives $100 additional bounty to all soldiers who enlisted for three years and were discharged by reason of expiration of service, or who were discharged for wounds received in battle and who have not received more than $100 bounty for such service. An additional bounty of $100 is also allowed to the nearest relative of soldiers who enlisted for a term of three years and who died or were killed in the service, to be paid in the following order: First, to the widow; second, to the children; third, to the father, and fourth, to the mother.

Soldiers' Widows.

By applying to W. H. Woods, of Huntingdon, Huntingdon county, Pa., you can have your pensions increased two dollars a month for each and every child you have, and when the widow has married or died, the children are entitled to the increase.

To all who have brought home the bodies of their friends who died or were killed in the service of the United States, there is a certain amount of compensation allowed you for the expenses incurred in bringing home the bodies of your friends, which you can obtain by making application to me.

Invalid Soldiers, Attention!

The act of Congress, approved June 6, 1866, gives additional pensions to the following class of persons:

Soldiers who have lost both eyes or both hands, $25 per month; who have lost both feet $20 per month; who have lost one hand or one foot, or totally disabled in the same, $15 per month.

Persons who have been deprived of their pensions in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government, can be restored to the pension roll by applying to me.

Fathers and mothers who were in whole or in part dependent upon their sons for support are entitled to a pension. Also brothers and sisters under sixteen years of age.

All discharged soldiers who did not receive transportation to their places of enlistment when discharged, are entitled to receive it; and also all who were held as prisoners of war, and did not receive commutation of rations when released or discharged, are entitled to it.

Officers who were in the service on the 3d of March, 1865, and were discharged after the 9th of April, 1865, by applying to me can receive three months extra pay.

Soldiers of 1812!

All soldiers, or soldiers' widows, of the war of 1812, who have served two months, or been wounded or disabled in such service, if in necessitous circumstances, are entitled to an annuity of $40.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent

Duplex Elliptic

or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: 'J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs' upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all these complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, appliable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.
